HALF BREED SCRIP.

The Ottawa Free Press publishes an interview with John R. Hall of the department of interior regarding the petition sent down by the half breeds of the Northwest for scrip for children born between 1870 and 1885. Mr. Hall said that the petition had been sent in all right but the government had declined to allow the claims made, as the settlement of 1885 was a final one. The ground of refusal, Mr. Hall says, is as follows:

When Manitoba came into the confederation in 1870, the half breeds then resident there had certain claims by virtue of their Indian blood, which claims the Dominion government agreed to recognize, and an agreement was entered into by which, in extinguishment of all these claims each head of a family was granted 160 acres of land, and each child born previous to July 15, 1870, 240 acres. In the course of time the half breeds of the Northwest Territories made demands on the government to be treated similarly to the Manitoba half breeds. It was these claims that caused the trouble in the Northwest in 1885. In that year, during the civil war, commissioners were sent to the Northwest to make a settlement. All the half breeds asked was that they be placed on the same footing as the Manitoba half breeds. These claims the commissioners allowed—that is, every head of a family was allowed land scrip for 160 acres or money scrip for $160, and each child born before July 15th, 1870, 240 acres or $240. This settlement was regarded as final, but now the Northwest half breeds have increased their demands and ask for scrip for all children born between 1870 and 1885. This claim the government has refused to consider. "The following is the agitation about half breed lands," Mr. Hall continued, "is shown by the fact that at least nine-tenths of all the Northwest half breeds ask for money scrip in place of land scrip. All they wanted was a little ready cash. Those who really profited by the transaction were the speculators who bought up the scrip at a big discount. It was ascertained by the commissioners that many of those in the Northwest who were making the loudest outcry about their rights not being recognized were Manitoba halfbreeds who had had their claims allowed in their land grants and moved to the Northwest and set up new claims."

"Have the Manitoba half breeds made any new claims since the settlement of 1870?" "None whatever. They have been quite satisfied, and those of the Northwest should be also. All they asked in the first place was to be treated the same as the half breeds of Manitoba. They have been so treated, and that should end the matter. As a matter of fact they have been treated more liberally. Some 1,400,000 acres of land were set apart for the Manitoba half breeds, and this was allotted to them. That is, each one was given a definite tract of land and had to take what was allotted, having no choice in the matter. The Northwest half breeds on the contrary were given scrip, and they could select their own land in the most fertile regions. If this new claim were allowed it would not be long before claims would be made for the children born since 1885, and so on without end. These half breeds are strong, hearty men, as well able to earn their living as white people, and should do so. Some of them are hard workers and have become wealthy by their own efforts, and all of them could at least earn a comfortable subsistence if they would exert themselves."

A meeting was held in Calgary recently to discuss the advisability of establishing a meat canning industry, the idea being to export the choice parts of the meat to China and Japan by the cold storage system and can the poorer parts.

Messrs. Harbutt and Miles of Chicago, Ontario, propose to start an oatmeal mill in Calgary provided the town offers sufficient inducements. The town offers a free site 400x150 feet, exemption from taxation for ten years and a bonus of $700 cash. Capacity of mill to be 250,000 bushels per annum and to be running by 1st November next.

The St. John, N. B. Telegraph contradicts the report that the C. P. R. immigration agencies in the Maritime provinces are to be closed. It says: The closure of the Canadian Pacific office in Moncton has given rise to the rumor that the work of which it was the centre would be abandoned. This is not true, as operations will be carried on from St. John as heretofore. We are strongly of opinion that it is most desirable for province people to remain beneath the flag of their own country, and are always pleased to learn that any who leave New Brunswick may seek homes in the Canadian Northwest or British Columbia rather than in a foreign land. The Canadian Pacific management, in its endeavor to direct the exodus from this province to the fertile lands in the Northwest, deserves and has the sympathy of patriotic Canadians.

WHEAT VS MIXED FARMING.

If there are two parts of the Canadian west that have been systematically held up as the most desirable for a new settler to go to in order to make money those parts are Portage la Prairie and Brandon. Both are essentially and pre-eminently wheat growing districts.
This need not be disputed. But a lurid light is thrown on the profitable nature of the wheat growing industry by the recent action of the Brandon farmers and the statements of the Portage la Prairie board of trade. The Brandon farmers refused to endorse the immigration policy of the Dominion government, on the grounds that the country was not sufficiently prosperous to warrant people in coming, and the Portage la Prairie board of trade endorses that action and adds in a memorial presented to Mr. Van Horne, president of the C. P. R. on the occasion of his recent visit to the Northwest, that in Portage la Prairie district without any material increase of population the number of chattel mortgages registered increased from 252 in 1887 to 528 in 1892.
County court suits increased from 141 in 1887 to 417 in 1892, and Queen's bench suits increased from 81 in 1887 to 429 in 1892 as a proof that there is a lack of prosperity. The remedy proposed is a reduction of freight rates and better shipping facilities. The real cause of the trouble is not lack of industry on the part of the people or of productiveness on the part of the country, neither is it the difference of a cent or two per hundred in freight rates. It is simply the terrible drop in the price of wheat, which has now fallen so low as to leave only the smallest margin of profit to the farmer on even a good crop and on a poor crop or with low prices leaves him necessarily at a loss. If the farmer raised horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, poultry, vegetables, etc., well as wheat, in fact if his farm produced him a living exclusive of his wheat, he could stand a small loss on wheat for a year or two while waiting for better times. But when he raises nothing but wheat and must pay for everything out of the price received for that wheat, if the price received in any one year fall below the cost of production, having no other resources, he is in debt and must stand off his creditors one way or another, either in courts or by giving mortgages. Thus a wheat farmer cannot possibly stand more than two or three years of poor crops or low prices. On the other hand if he raised the greater part of his own living by a system of mixed farming by having less to sell and less to buy, the outside market price of produce or rate of freight would affect him less, while he would be in a position to make more out of his produce by holding what was low and only selling what was high, as the wheat farmer cannot do. Of course success at mixed farming requires a country suitable for it, just as wheat or any other kind of farming requires a country suitable for it. It is as a region for mixed farming that the Edmonton district stands pre-eminent and is why there is such a movement from the wheat farms of the Red River and Palliser, to this district. People have become tired of working for the railway companies, the machinery agents and the note shavers, as those of Portage la Prairie and Brandon are doing, and wish to try working for themselves for a few

A CUSTOMS OUTRAGE.

Some weeks ago the customs authorities seized a horse belonging to Mayor McCauley and a span of horses belonging to T. W. Chalmers, D. L. S., which they had purchased from E. O. Chapman, who came from Palouse, Washington, last fall. They also seized a span of mules belonging to Chapman, which were still in his possession. The grounds for the seizure of the animals belonging to Chapman, who entered the country as a settler and so was allowed to bring in his horses duty free, by selling them violated the agreement which he had entered into at the time he brought them across the line, and caused the animals to become dutiable. The facts were that Mr. Chapman was informed at the boundary that his horses would come in duty free and he was not warned against disposing of them. Having decided to return to Palouse, and not wishing to pay freight on the horses back to Palouse, and the United States duty as well, he decided to sell them, and did so. When the horses were seized from Messrs. McCauley and Chalmers, Chapman offered to pay the duty, but this was refused and the mules which remained in his possession were seized as well. After remaining some time in Edmonton in the hope of obtaining a settlement, and after repeatedly offering to pay the duty on all the animals seized, he finally left for Palouse, leaving his mules still under seizure. At the time, the seizure of the horses and mules seemed to be altogether unexplained, as Chapman had evidently no intention of defrauding the revenue. What he had done, if it was contrary to law, he had done ignorantly, and was willing to make good any wrong that had been done as soon as he knew what it was. But the customs authorities would not accept the duty from him, would not release his stock and would not say what they would do. In the meantime the animals were kept in custody with an expense bill piling up against them. At last, after Chapman had returned to Palouse, and after Mr. Chalmers had been compelled to purchase another team in order to carry on his business, word was received that the horses of Messrs. McCauley and Chalmers would be released if the duty and expenses were paid. What is to be done with Mr. Chapman's mules is not publicly known. What the public want to know in this matter is: If the horses can be released to Messrs. McCauley and Chalmers a month after being seized on the duty being paid, why they could not have been released the day after when Chapman offered to pay the duty and when the purchasers would not have been at the loss of it. They also want to know why Chapman's mules were seized at all when they were still in his possession, and he offered to pay the duty. They further want to know, if the customs authorities are not guided by any rule of law or reason so that they know when to make a seizure or not, and whether or not they can accept duty when it is offered them. They also would like to know how the government expects success in inducing people to come from the other side of the line if they are to be harassed and robbed by government authority as this man Chapman has been. True, he was leaving the country and therefore had no right in the law, but nearly every other settler who has come from the States within the past two years has disposed of some of his live stock—not knowing that he should not—and is therefore as liable to persecution as Chapman. No doubt stringent customs regulations are necessary to prevent the defrauding of the revenue, but these regulations should not be used for the purpose of robbing the public as in this case. Either the government or its officials are responsible for the wrong that has been done in this case. If it is the fault of the law the government should change the law and if it is the fault of ignorant officials these officials should give place to others of greater intelligence. It is intolerable that honest men should be robbed, and treated as thieves as well, by a customs department which does not know its own regulations for a month at a stretch.
